Forceful Means Employed By Farmers to Enforce Strike Against Prices

ENTER CHEESE PLANTS

Delegates From Associations in Many States Meeting in Sioux City

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Midwestern farmers dumped milk and turned back shipments of livestock to market today in an effort to enforce the strike called by the National Farm Holiday association.

Farm organizations in Iowa and Wisconsin notified dairymen and farmers of their intention to continue blockade highways to stop shipments to market by "forceful means if necessary."

At Milan, Wis., 100 farm strike pickets invaded a cheese plant and dumped 10,000 pounds of milk from vats. Trucks loaded with livestock were turned back near Sioux City, Ia. Deliveries of produce were halted on highways near Veville, Wis.

Pickets blockaded roads leading to Strafford, Wis., by piling timber across them. Production was halted in cheese factories of Barroo, Runn, Rusk, Polk and Chippewa counties in Wisconsin.

Delegates Met

Delegates from farm holiday associations in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota met in Sioux City to lay plans for enforcing the strike, called Saturday by Milo Reno, six-foot-two president of the association.

A resolution endorsing picketing and declaring, "this is war, nothing less," was adopted. The resolution called for establishment of concentration points where farm products may be sold on a cost of production basis, but not below that level.

Representatives of 12 creameries in Chippewa and Dunn counties, Wisconsin, met at Bloomer, Wis., and decided to close their plants for five days, beginning Friday, in sympathy with the farm strike.

The movement met opposition in several sources.

Oppose Strike

Representatives of the Wisconsin co-operative milk pool in Waukesha, Milwaukee and Washington counties, voted against joining the strike "at this time."

Keith Neville, who resigned last week as chairman of the Nebraska NRA board because he felt the NRA had not helped the farmer, said there was no hope of adjusting inequalities through the farm strike.

"The strike is the inspiration of desperate and discouraged men," Neville wrote General Hugh Johnson. "I regret and deplore it." Others were apprehensive the strike might lead to serious trouble.

Similar outbursts of farm unrest in Iowa and Wisconsin last year led to many instances of violence, destruction of considerable property, at least two deaths and numerous injuries.

The association, which claims a membership of 2,000,000 farmers in 27 states, asked farmers to withdraw all produce from market, boycott merchants and refuse to pay taxes or debts until farm prices reach cost of production.

DIRECTORS OF COUNTY WATER BODY ORGANIZE

Possibility of Conservation by Spreading Water to Be Investigated

IMEDIATE action to investigate the possibility of conserving water in Orange county by spreading water flowing in the Santa Ana river bed was taken at the first meeting of the board of directors of the Orange County Water District in Garden Grove yesterday afternoon.

At the suggestion of Director William Wallop, Willis H. Warner, Huntington Beach, who was elected permanent chairman of the board, appointed C. Roy Browning, Wallop and William Schumacher as a special committee to investigate the proposed water spreading.

Wallop stressed the importance of starting immediately to spread water in the Orange county basin. His plan was to use tractors in throwing up ridges in the river bottom to halt the water and sink it into the basin. The ridges would be run parallel to the banks and back into the middle of the stream so as not to endanger private property.

Wallop said he had been promised that 150 men from CCC camps in the county would be available to aid in the spreading work, which would be done between the Yorba and Chapman street bridges.

Director Schumacher presented a statement of policy which he moved for adoption by the board, but which failed for lack of a second. Directors voted to table the statement until the next meeting, which will be held November 8 in Garden Grove. The statement of policy, it was learned, opposed water spreading in the upper basins, endorsed the Elliott plan in principle and would have banned the employment of attorneys or engineers unless a definite project is attempted.

The bodies of Lieut. F. S. Chappelle, Waterloo, N. Y., Lt. H. A. MacFarlane, Haverhill, Mass., and Chief Pay Clerk John W. Troy, Newport, R. I., were carried on the cruiser which reached port here despite a gaping hole in its portside.

The opening extended from the waterline to the top deck.

Mathematician Joseph A. Oehlers, Camden, N. Y., had an arm amputated in the collision.

Capt. H. E. Kays, commander of the Chicago, said a "large brown ship" appeared suddenly out of the fog on the starboard side of the cruiser, cutting across the bow. He did not know its identity.

Slackened Speed

"We slackened speed and sheared off to port to avoid a crash," he said. "Just then the Silver Palm loomed on the other side."

Kays and Admiral Harris Lang, commanding officer of the cruiser force, told how the men on the Chicago stood by awaiting an inevitable collision. They explained the cruiser, a 10,000-ton craft of the newest type, was traveling too slow to avoid the British ship.

"The collision call was sounded and within a few moments she struck us," Admiral Lang said.

Examination of the cruiser showed a hole running from its .50 gun turrets to about amidships. The opening exposed three decks and some of the officers' staterooms below decks. Clothing could be seen on hangers in the cabins. The hole appeared to be about 15 feet wide at the waterline and about 40 feet at the top deck. The guns in the turret were scraped by the freighter's prow.

Chappelle, MacFarlane and Troy were trapped in their staterooms before they could respond to the emergency call. Oehlers was

Commander of Cruiser Says Warship Driven Off Its Course in Fog

CIAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A "phantom" ship drove off the U. S. cruiser Chicago off its course and into the path of the British freighter Silver Palm, officers of the warship said today in describing the mid-sea collision which killed three men and injured another.

STATE SEEKS LOAN FROM GOVERNMENT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(UP)—A $5,000,000 federal loan, which would be used to finance the slaughter of all tubercular cattle in California, was sought by the State Department of Agriculture today as a means of solving dairy problems.

On the basis of recent tuberculin control work, it was estimated 75,000 cows would be killed.

THOMAS HOLDS SOCIALISM ANSWERS PROBLEMS; WUNDER DEFENDS PRESENT SYSTEM

WITH ONE SPEAKER charging that capitalism has collapsed and that all arguments for its maintenance are gone and the other speaker opposing the abolition of capitalism, Norman Thomas, idol of the Socialist party and twice presidential candidate debated the question, "Is Socialism the Answer?" with Major Clinton Wunder, Legionnaire of Los Angeles, before a crowd which nearly filled the high school auditorium in the opening meeting of the Orange County Forum.

As the first speaker, Norman Thomas marshalled his arguments in order to show that Socialism is the answer to problems in what he termed a "sick civilization." He decried the exploitation of workers for the benefit of a few favored persons declaring that only through organization of all types of workers can collective ownership make slaves of the machine instead of the machine making slaves of men.

Capitalism is as outmoded as the ox cart, Thomas asserted several times during the meeting of the American Legion was rebuked for its attempt in Orange county to discourage the staging of open forum meetings for public discussion. Major Wunder, a legionnaire, said that certain members of the Legion always want to fight. He described his experience here with the county council, when a resolution was passed opposing the type of speakers presented on forum programs.

COTTON STRIKE HUGE PENSION COMES TO END RELINQUISHED BY BANK HEAD THIS MORNING

Labor Bureau in Executive Meets Accepts 75 Cent Scale for Pickers

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(UP)—The end of a bloody cotton pickers' strike which paralyzed the harvest in California's rich fields for weeks, came suddenly today.

The San Joaquin Valley agricultural labor bureau, meeting in an executive session here, adopted a 75-cent per hundredweight scale for pickers, 15 cents above the scale the strikers protested, and 25 cents below the amount they sought.

Representatives of all cotton growing districts insisted that they considered 60 cents a hundredweight a fair wage, but that the interests of good American citizenship, law and order, and in order to forestall the spread of communism and radicalism, and to protect the harvesting of other crops, the 75-cent scale was adopted.

The farmers cited assurances of Governor James Rolph Jr., that pickers and ranchers would be protected and promises of R. C. Branion, emergency relief director, that no relief would be given to strikers who refuse to accept the scale, as conditions under which they adopted the new rate.

Affects Thousands

It was believed thousands of pickers would return to the fields immediately, abandoning their last stand for 50 cents a hundredweight, recognition of the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' Industrial Union, and unconditional release of all jailed strikers.

Adoption of the increased wage scale, urged by a fact-finding committee appointed by Governor Rolph, came after weeks of turmoil and strife, which was climax Monday night by demands for national guard troops in Kings county. State highway patrolmen were sent instead, and relieved county authorities in preventing further bloodshed.

The strike was called weeks ago by Pat Chambers, leader of the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' union who is now held in jail at Visalia on a criminal syndicalism charge.

The union demanded $1 per hundredweight, a 66 per cent increase over the 60-cent rate fixed originally by the valley labor bureau. The 60-cent rate represented a 50-per cent raise over the rate in effect last year.

Growers refused to meet the union's demands. Pickets began patrolling the fields. Tension increased.

Ranchers formed vigilance committees, determined to protect their property and pickers they had employed. Violence ensued.

Mining And Farm Issues Are Leaders

American Telephone Active for First Time in Many Weeks and Soars

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Inflation hopes again drove the stock market higher today, attracting new outside participation, as the government started on its policy of managed gold prices.

There was some early disappointment that the government had not fixed a price higher than $31.36. Wall Street having expected a gold price from $35 to $40 a fine ounce, but this was soon chased away and prices surged forward. Foreign exchange trading was quiet, but commodities swung forward with stock prices, wheat showing advances of more than 3 cents a bushel.

There were two or three periods of activity, when tickers were forced to run abbreviated quotations, but these gave way to comparative quiet trading towards the close. Prices, however, remained near their peak for the day at gains of 1 to almost 6 points.

Inflation benefitting stocks again were leaders, particularly the farm equipment and mining issues. Farm equipment stocks maintained strength from the start and towards the close J. I. Case had a gain of more than 5 points and International Harvester better than 1 point. Gold mining stocks benefited from the new gold price policy, and McIntyre Porcupine ran into a new high for the year on a more than 2 points gain. Alaska Juneau and Dome Mines both gained about a point.

One of the old-time leaders, American Telephone, came back to prominence after several weeks of uneasiness. Towards the close it showed gains of more than 4 points. Another leader was United States Steel, which opened at 40, skidded, and then came back to above 42 for more than 2 points' gain.

PUBLISHER IN CRITICISM OF RECOVERY ACT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The American people, saddled with the national recovery act and companionate legislation, are "little if any better than a nation of subjects, dominated and domineered over by an army of officials modded after Russia, Italy and Germany," in the opinion of Col. R. R. McCormick, millionaire publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

McCormick leveled a fiery blast against encroachment of government control on private enterprise in a speech before the Western States Taxpayers' association convention here last night.

"One act of congress has purported to wipe out our constitution and our inherent rights," the publisher declared. "You have no longer inviolable property rights. You must ignore the law of supply and demand. You must obey the administrator. You are as helpless as a man who offended a Tudor king."

He characterized present administration methods as the "re-establishment of the medieval English star chamber form of government."

"A year ago," he continued, "your property was your own and meant you didn't need a lawyer to advise you whether you might buy or sell, or the price to mark on each article.

"Your case is different now. You must sign an agreement or take your code. As you sit at your books, the shadow of a government agent, regulator, judge and jailor combined sits with you. The law is that of the star chamber."

The NRA has stripped citizens of "inviolable property rights," making them bow to the will of the administrator, the publisher said.

"Let us say you fall to do so," he assumed. "The government employees who issued the edict are the judges. The administrator whose edict you have offended is the judge and the law back of the edict says the verdict is final. Trial by jury is denied you. You are as helpless as a man who offended the Tudor king and stood before the king's favorites in the star chamber. Neither you nor any other citizen of the United States has ever had such a thing happen to him before in this country, not since 1775, not even under the sedition act."

"Whatever may be said for the purposes of the recovery act, such are its consequences, and whatever conditions may be today, I do not believe they can be improved by going back on our own history and taking up methods from elsewhere."

Replying to McCormick, Chester Rowell of the San Francisco Chronicle defended the NRA as an emergency measure enacted in the hope of "pulling us out of the mire."

"The rights of the individual in a crisis must sometimes be subjugated in favor of the benefit to the community," Rowell said. "The duties of a property owner do not end with his protection and upkeep of his own property alone."

BOOKS TO BE DISPLAYED
PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—The famous Yale University collection of books and manuscripts connected with the Oxford Movement will be displayed here during the session of the Catholic Congress of the Episcopal Church, Oct. 22 to 26.

"Cruel as capitalism has been, to end war which has cursed the earth for so long."

In his first period, Major Wunder agreed that the body politic is sick, that Mellons and Morgans are not be endured and that war is bad. "But," he said, "Socialism is not able to stop them. The League of Nations tried to stop war and failed. Christians tried to stop war and failed. How can Socialism do it?"

"Socialism is an untried dream.

There has not been one sustained success in Socialism which is the mother of Communism. It is significant that people want to live in the United States. The depression is world wide but no nation is better off than the United States.

Money will not be more evenly divided while human nature, which Socialism cannot change, exists, while greed and selfishness exist. Socialism cannot get rid of the fact that individual expression and ambition exists.

"I make no apologies for capitalism, which has dug out the hidden resources of the world. All of us are capitalists, or owners. Today the owner is carrying the load, not the worker. We are having more and more profit sharing institutions. Socialism would fail because many would refuse to work. We are starting now to restrict the size of a fortune one person can amass to prevent the menace of concentrated fortunes.

Back President

"Thomas speaks of loyalty. What is needed is a little old-fashioned loyalty for Franklin Roosevelt, who in the last six months has done more for us than all of the Socialistic speeches put together. The answer is the NRA and associated plans. Four million people already have gone back to work.

"At the last election 38 times as many people voted either for Roosevelt or for Hoover as for Thomas. They were afraid of Socialism, which will fall because of the human element. The day may come when Socialism is the answer but it is a long way away.

"I was in the war. Thomas was not. If all of us had stayed away from the war the people who would have moved in might not have been very kind to us."

In his first rebuttal, Norman Thomas said that while Wunder called Socialism sweetened wind, he expected everything to be all right because Roosevelt made a speech. "If we are unable to stop a war," he said, "God help the world. War arises out of economic clashes, out of propaganda arising from old classes.

"I did not say Socialism could be brought about by swallowing a pill. Hard work must be done. Profit sharing is not increasing. Wealth is not evenly distributed. Do you mean to tell me that unemployed men do not want work?"

That initiative is recognized under this system? I did not say all would get the same wage. Society has not yet been ready for Socialism but there are forewarnings of what can be done; even in Russia where there is no unemployment. Socialism does not say to put everything in one pot to be divided equally. It says to own collectively things that are used collectively like roads, etc.

U. S. Treasure House

"The desire to emigrate to the United States in many European countries is not great now but it is understandable that the desire is there. Here we have a treasure house which God has given us.

"Socialism would have kept the banks socialized, would have planned industry and applied a plan for a capital levy because those who have great fortunes did not earn them. Socialism would not have spent $128,000,000 for a navy which lessens our security. Socialism would not have destroyed crops. Socialism is not a heaven on earth but it would give us hell. Would it conquer corruption? The Socialist record is not that of Tammany Hall."

Major Wunder, in his rebuttal, argued if Socialism takes away the navy who will guarantee that none will shoot at us. "Some day," he said, "we will get rid of greed. Probably the reason Socialists do not stay in office long enough to find out where the treasury in the city hall is."

Thomas replied that after Wunder's talk his confusion increased. "Major Wunder," he said, "wants to try nothing new and yet asks support of the NRA which was never tried before. Roosevelt said he was a quarterback, trying to put the ball across at any point he could. He admits he is experimenting. Socialism backs Roosevelt by pushing forward, by backing strikers in Los Angeles and other places who are out against chiselers. The bread lines we have are the worst kind of dole."

"The mayor of Milwaukee has been in office 17 years as a Socialist and it doesn't take 17 minutes for a Democrat or Republican to find out where the treasury is."

Issues Warning

"You can't just sit and accept things. Life rushes you on. On to chaos if there is another war; to chaos if there is a new economic breakdown; to Fascism which is spreading. But it may take you to Socialism if you are capable of planning a society based on abundance for all, properly distributed. Take heed lest your children curse you for bringing them into a world of poverty and disorder."

In the forum period, Thomas said in answer to a question that methods Socialism taking over industries would depend on the condition of the times. He pointed out that private property has interfered with the development of water conservation here. He warned that if inflation comes, wages must go up in direct ratio.

Answering a question, Major Wunder said if there was another war there would not be enough people left even to debate.

Asked another question, Thomas declared that there is no absolute assurance that Socialism can be accomplished through democracy.

"It is better," he said, "to try that though, than to scrap it."

DR. NILS NEILSEN RESCUED BY TROOPS

MUKDEN, Manchukuo, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Dr. Nils Nielsen, American missionary kidnapped last March, was rescued by Japanese troops today and taken to army headquarters at Hsiaoyen according to reports here. Nielsen was captured by bandits March 12.

When the medical missionary, whose home was in Minneapolis, Minn., was seized, the bandits demanded that a ransom of one-half million Mexican dollars (about $100,000) be paid for his release. The ransom negotiations fell through.

Sixty-four thousand dollars were paid to the bandits.

Signs of a terrific struggle in his room indicated he was shot by a bandit who fled without taking $80 Rawlings carried in his pocket, police said. The murderer escaped through a screened window.

NAVY SECRETARY IN LOS ANGELES TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson began a round of social activity today after enunciating the administration's naval program as one designed to give the nation maximum defense on the high seas.

PLYMOUTH IS THE "BEST SELLER" IN 93 CALIFORNIA CITIES AND TOWNS

"Native Son" made in California now selling more than four times as fast as last year!

IN THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER—over four and a half times as many Californians went out and bought Plymouths as in September a year ago!

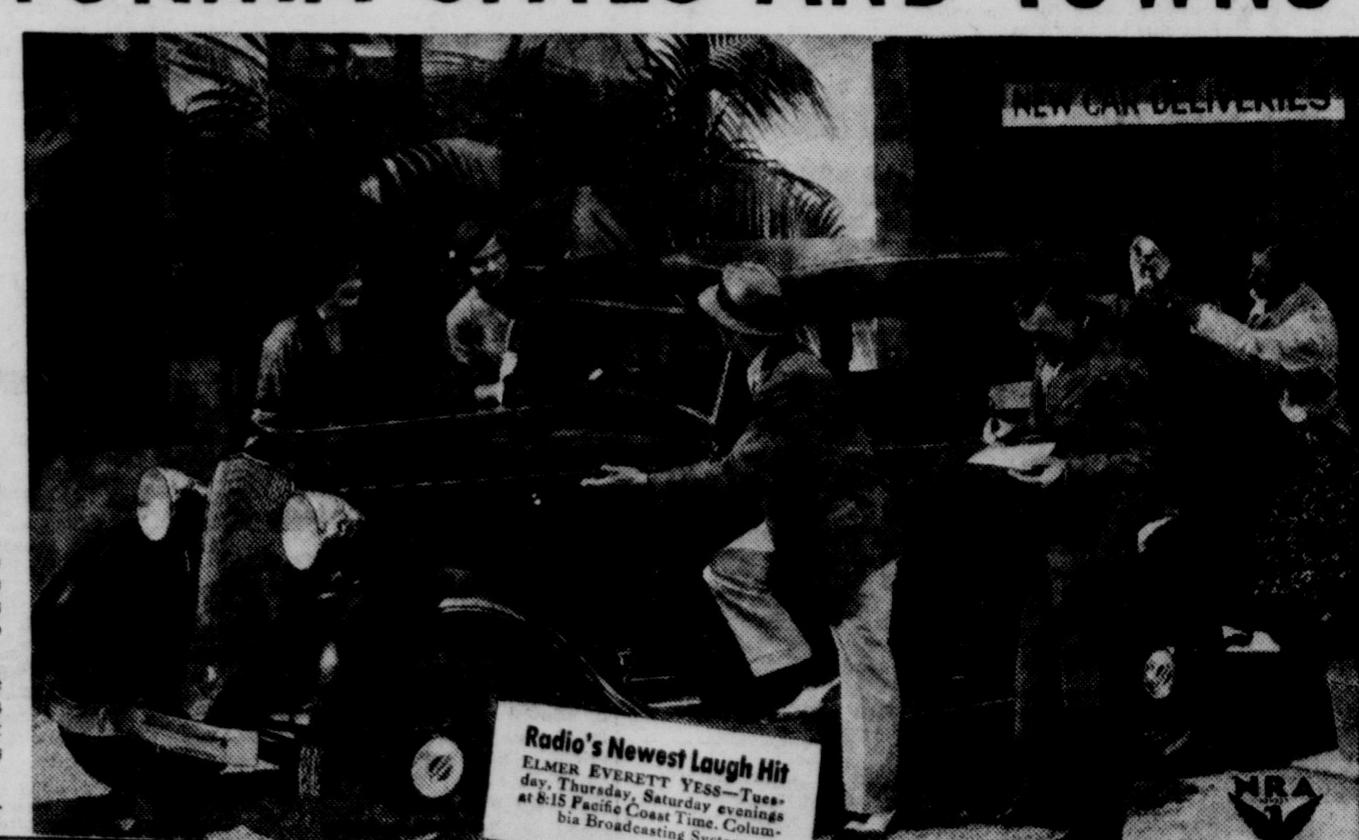

In 93 cities and towns Plymouth was in first place in sales, and in sixty-eight others it was tied for first place.

That's something for you to think about, for a couple of reasons. For one thing—the cars Californians buy are made right here in California, and every time a Plymouth is sold, that helps a Californian hold his job and support his family.

Then, too, people who spend as much time in cars as Californians do, know a few things about automobile values. They don't put any car into first place unless that car gives them more fun in driving—speed, power, flash-

PREDICTS AIR STUDENTS TOLD DEVELOPMENT NOT TO BECOME IN COMMERCE 'GOLD SLAVES'

Predicting that within a decade established passenger air lines will be flying all over the world, Hugh Allen, dirigible expert of the Goodyear company, was the featured speaker at the regular weekly meeting of Santa Ana Rotary club yesterday afternoon in James' cafe.

Introduced by Hubert Brown, local Goodyear manager, the speaker gave an explanatory address while motion pictures were shown of the construction work on the huge U. S. S. Macon and of its initial flight.

The speaker visioned quickening of commerce and development of new business for the United States in the predicted spread of air travel and commerce. He said steamships cannot pay expenses and that most lines are heavily subsidized by various governments.

He pointed out that the Macon would arrive in Los Angeles Friday and that residents of this section would have an opportunity to see the ship when it is here. The huge ship carries five airplanes.

Prior to the address, W. H. Spurgeon gave a report on progress of the boy's work committee. He told of a recent meeting of similar committees from other service clubs with the Rotary committee, when Judge H. G. Ames, of the juvenile court, outlined a program service clubs could take part in to aid delinquent boys.

E. B. Sharpley, president, presided at the meeting.

"Don't be a slave to a stack of gold" was the advice given to the junior college students in their regular assembly yesterday by Dr. Carl Knopf, professor of Archeology and Religion at the University of Southern California.

Dr. Knopf, who spoke on "What Price America?" was obtained after college authorities cancelled the scheduled talk by Norman Thomas because of objection by certain groups to his political and economic views.

He pointed out that we are coming to an era of "managed business" wherein over-competition and other unpleasant phases of the present economic condition would be government controlled and done away with.

He told the young people that the condition of the world 25 years from now depended upon them; that now they could blame the present "mess" on their parents and teachers, but they will soon have an opportunity to better things by running them themselves.

Knopf stressed that in the future scheme, what he termed as "the fond delusions of money, power, desire of a country for commercial supremacy, and nationalism would be non-existent, but that we would build on a basis of living rather than one of money."

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications represent the opinions of the writers and not necessarily the opinions of the Register.

Santa Ana Junior College, October 24, 1933.

Editor, Santa Ana Register:

This past week the students of Santa Ana Junior College have fought for a principle—the right to think for themselves.

When certain interests brought before the students of their right to hear Norman Thomas at school assembly, the student body arose in protest and arranged to hear Thomas through the medium of a banquet in his honor.

The banquet was more than a success—in spite of the fact that there was a charge for the dinner.

In behalf of the students of the Junior College, we wish to thank you for the hearty support given to our cause by your paper. We realize that the comments which appeared in The Register were vitally important in putting our problem before the youth of Orange county. Without such backing it would have been almost impossible for us to have attained the measure of success which we feel is ours.

We wish, also, to thank those objectors who have so unreservedly occupied their time and directed their energies toward an attempt to regulate and control our channels of thought.

Their efforts have been productive, for they have created, in general, an attitude of greater tolerance among the students. But more than that, they have enkindled in the student body a desire to exert personal rights, and to exercise individual judgments, as is the privilege of students in other colleges, and is their natural right.

As representatives and spokesmen for the student body, we remain.

Yours respectfully,
KENNETH M. FRAZER,
and
AUSTIN JOY.

Among matters that came before the Orange County Coast association at its meeting in Laguna Beach last night were reports on the efforts to locate a naval base in Orange county, Newport harbor project, and Christmas lighting plan.

T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach reported briefly on the county-wide effort to secure a naval base for Orange county, telling that the matter will be taken up with the League of Municipalities Thursday night of this week at Brea in an effort not only for cooperation but to raise funds. The county organization is known as the Orange County National Defense league and a report of the set-up of the organization will be made public in a short time by A. C. Peterson, Laguna Beach editor, who is chairman of the publicity committee.

Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach, chairman of the marine affairs committee, told of the hope of getting the Newport Harbor plan accepted as a Federal project, following the recommendation of government engineers. Counting out the $30 per cent which is given to each project under the R. F. C. plan, the cost to the harbor district will be about $670,000 of the $1,800,000 which the improvement will cost. Wallace introduced L. C. Easton, formerly of Los Angeles, employed for 40 years as the Army's civilian engineer in this district, who is about to retire and who will make Laguna Beach his home.

Dr. C. D. Huston of Costa Mesa said chairmen are being appointed in each community to carry out the Christmas lighting plan along the coast this year and that a report will be made at the November meeting.

President Murphine called upon V. D. Johnson of Orange to extend the congratulations of the association to the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce which is reviving its activities under the leadership of Capt. George A. Portus, executive secretary. Johnson said conditions are slowly but surely improving and said bulletins from the NRA headquarters in Washington show that 3,000,000 more men are employed than were a few months ago.

Dr. David R. Hoffman, president of the Laguna Beach chamber, replied to Johnson. Capt. Portus, Ralph McFadden of Placentia, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the county, and Ross Shafer of Tustin, past president, also spoke.

President Murphine announced the appointment of the following special committee on transient unemployed: A. T. Smith, San Clemente; Captain George A. Portus, Laguna Beach; Councilman Irving G. Gordon, Newport Beach; Mrs. Stella White, Huntington Beach; Dr. C. D. Huston, Costa Mesa; Councilman William Meacham, Seal Beach.

President Murphine called upon Roy Browning, as chairman of the water conservation committee, to make a special report on the state water act to be voted upon Dec. 19, at the November meeting of the association at the Yacht club in Newport Beach.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (Adv.)

GETS PRISON TERM ON RAZOR CHARGE

Denied probation yesterday by Superior Judge James L. Allen in department two, superior court, Sam Hathaway Yearly, who pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon, was sentenced to San Quentin prison.

Yearly had pleaded guilty to cutting Claude Barnes with a razor during a fight on February 15, 1931, and asked for probation. At his probation hearing yesterday Yearly admitted having fled the state. He was arrested several weeks ago and it was necessary to secure his extradition.

Judge Allen continued the probation hearing until this morning in order to receive testimony of Barnes, before acting on the probation application.

STATE OFFICIAL POINTS NEED OF CHEST SUPPORT

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 25.—(UPI)—Citizens of Orange county must remember that despite improved conditions there are still thousands of unemployed persons in dire need, Mrs. Reba Crawford Spilvano, state director of social welfare, said today in urging support of a local community chest and charity campaigns.

"Despite improved economic conditions," she said, "we are faced with a severe winter which may prove a crucial part of our recovery program. While hundreds of thousands in California are again at work, there are still more than 300,000 unemployed."

"We must not merely keep people from starving. We should also realize the necessity of building from the bottom up, and not merely provide the bare necessities of food from the top down.

"The people should adhere to the spirit of the national recovery act slogan 'we do our part' not only in business, but in charity and in meeting human needs for human recovery."

FULL QUOTA OF SANTA ANA'S ON M. W. D. JOB

To clear up misunderstanding regarding the employment policy of the Metropolitan Water district and misinformation said to be in circulation in Santa Ana, the following statement was issued today by Col. S. H. Finley, Santa Ana member of the board of directors and secretary of the board:

"There seems to be some misinformation about the employment policy of the Metropolitan Water district being circulated in Santa Ana either through ignorance or a deliberate intention to create dissatisfaction. It occurred to me that a statement of the truth might be welcomed by our citizens.

"It is being reported that Santa Ana is not getting its proper share of the employment. The answer to this is that there is not an atom of truth in it. Our auditor makes monthly reports to the directors of the district, showing the percentage of employment to which each city is entitled and the per centage which it actually has had on the work.

More Than Its Share
"Since the beginning of the work, there is not a single one of these reports but shows that Santa Ana has had more than its share. The report for September just received, shows that Santa Ana was entitled to a total payroll payment of $24,419.66, to date, and had actually received $30,493.09.

"This condition, of course, cannot be expected to continue, since the other cities which are now below their quota, are entitled to their fair share. This favorable position of Santa Ana was not occasioned by any efforts on my part to have our city get an unfair portion of the employment. It has been my policy, and will continue to be, not to use my influence for one person rather than another for employment. It would be unfair for me to do so, since manifestly only a small proportion of those applying can hope for employment. For that reason it is the policy of the board of directors to keep their hands off the selection of employees. No political influence, relationship, or personal friendship is expected to enter into their selection.

"That matter is left entirely up to the chief engineer who knows the qualifications of the men required and whom we hold responsible for the efficient and economical construction of the aqueduct. Most of the work is highly specialized and the directors are not qualified to make the selections and do not desire to assume the responsibility.

Adjust Inequities
"Santa Ana must not expect to hold its present unfair advantage in the matter of employment. It has happened in the past by reason of the difficulty of getting a proper check on the residences of the employees, where so many contractors were organizing their forces at about the same time. This inequality will be adjusted in the near future as additional men are put on, and selected from the cities below their quota.

"The statement was made to me a few days ago by a man who had been out on the aqueduct seeking employment to the effect that he did not see a single man he knew from Santa Ana and that all the men were being taken from Los Angeles. This is not true. At no time since the beginning of construction has the city of Los Angeles had its quota of employees. Knowing the likelihood of criticism on that ground, the authorities from that city have been more than fair to the smaller cities.

"One man who had made an application from this city and been unable to get selected for employment, recently visited the San Gabriel canyon, where the Pine canyon dam is being constructed and came back criticizing the Metropolitan Water district because of the illuminating information, which he had been able to uncover by his detective work, that not a man from Santa Ana was on the job, but all were being employed from Pasadena.

Checked Wrong Job
"If our application for additional funds from the public works administration should be approved, it is the purpose of the district to immediately commence work on the lined canal and conduit portions of the aqueduct where a greater variety of untrained laborers will be required. The number would be increased to approximately 15,000 with a reasonable short time.

"At the beginning of the work a few men got on the work by claiming to be residents of Santa Ana, when they were not. I had a complete list of all Santa Ana employees furnished me with their purported street addresses. I personally investigated each one of these cases and the foreign ones were eliminated. I plan from time to time to make a similar check, either personally or through the county welfare department. Of course the employment of men cannot be delegated to anyone outside of our organization, but I would appreciate any help in seeing that the work is properly placed with legitimate residents."

One of the oldest trades unions in Great Britain is the National Cigar and Tobacco Workers' Union, which recently celebrated its centenary.

For the LOVE of EVE

CHAPTER I

IT WAS a brief and hurried marriage ceremony, not at all the imposing affair Eve Bayless had dreamed her wedding would be.

Just she and Dick, at the Little Stone Church, with the rectory housekeeper and a young civil engineer whom Dick knew for witness. Monday noon—and the hastily performed ceremony was like an anti-climax to the passionate scene of parting Thursday night when Eve had decided she wanted to be Dick's wife with as little loss of time as possible.

And now, even while she was being married to Dick, there was the menacing ghost of the morning hovering between her and her happiness.

To Eve her wedding was like a disturbing dream. Would she get back to the store before Mr. Barnes sent for her? Would Dick be angry and storm when she told him what had happened that morning? Or would he be hurt and silent? Well, she wouldn't tell him until she had learned for sure—this evening after dinner. No use to spoil the afternoon for him. She tried to focus her attention on the words that were binding her to Dick, but there were so many thoughts that kept interfering.

Now the earnest young rector was giving them his blessing. Dick's ring was on her finger, Dick's arms were around her. Dick's lips, possessive yet very tender, pressed to hers. Eve's heart melted. In that moment she was almost ready to give up everything for Dick. Her work, the coveted goal almost within reach, the career she had dreamed of through her girlhood—these she was moved to heap on love's altar as a sacrifice.

It was Dick who broke the spell. Abruptly his arms released her. It was he who suggested, almost brusquely, that they'd have to hurry or they would be late to work.

BUT by the time his roadster had nosed its way through the noonday traffic to the side entrance of Bixby's department store, where Eve was employed as a copy writer in the advertising office, Dick's mood had changed again. His hand closed over hers. "Eve, sweetheart, don't go back! I don't want my wife out earning her living. Let me take care of you, darling. You know—the kind of marriage we talked about last night—that's what I want. A little house with a fireplace and a garden and—a baby—"

"Dick," she pleaded, "let me go! We can't thresh that out again. At least not here. Not now. Wait for me here this evening. I'll try not to be late, but I don't know. Something came up in the office this morning—something unexpected and terribly important. I'll tell you about it this evening. Bye, dearest."

Eve consulted her watch when she reached the third floor. She had just five minutes to change from the brown ensemble which was her wedding costume into her smart but simple black office dress. The change was accomplished in the allotted time and the brown costume and the corsage of creamy, fragrant rosebuds with tawny orchids that Dick had sent, put away in her locker. Thank goodness none of the girls whom she knew at Bixby's had spied that corsage! They could scent a wedding months away.

She slipped off her wedding ring, the little circlet of pale yellow gold engraved with orange blossoms which she had chosen instead of platinum because it matched the golden lights in her amber eyes and honey-colored hair and harmonized with the October browns and yellows that were her favorite colors. She put the ring in the chamois envelope which guarded her money and trinkets. Eve had told no one at Bixby's that she was to be married today. She would not tell them for a while—not until she was certain she wished them to know.

Oh, she should have waited until June to be married, she told herself unhappily as she went into the office. If only they could have been married Saturday instead of today, it would have helped the situation some. But the state law had been changed and a three-day notice was required before a marriage license could be issued. She knew she should not be thinking about all this now. She must keep her nerves steady and her mind clear for that conference with Mr. Barnes at two o'clock. She hoped, yet feared, the outcome of that conference.

EVE was relieved to find there was no one in the advertising office except Marya Vlad, the fashion artist, who was working at her drawing board in a corner by the window. Perhaps Marya was not so oblivious to what went on about her as she seemed. Perhaps her candid blue eyes were more penetrating than her fellow workers realized, but at any rate she was too courteous and considerate to ask questions that might prove unwelcome. She merely looked up and smiled as Eve entered.

"Did anyone ask for me?" Marya knew of the conference with Mr. Barnes, scheduled for two o'clock.

"No one. How lovely you look today, Eve."

"Oh, I'm glad you think so! I have a special reason for wanting to look well today."

"Is that so?" echoed a voice in gay raillery and Arlene Smith, Earle Barnes' stenographer, entered the office, only a few steps behind Eve. "Don't tell us you are turning to such tactics to land a promotion," Arlene went on. "Not after the way I've been bragging to my family about the highmindedness and all-around superiority of this office force!"

"Goodness, no!" laughed Eve. "The promotion, if any, hasn't a thing to do with my wish. I just came in from a date with a very special man. He's the marked victim of my fatal charm—not Mr. Barnes, nor yet Mr. Bixby."

With a quick look to see that no one was near, Dick gathered her in his arms.

Eve laughed uneasily and slipped a fresh sheet of paper into her typewriter. The conversation was on dangerous ground. It had been on the tip of her tongue a moment ago to tell Arlene and Marya about the wedding that noon in the Little Stone Church, but she was not ready for that disclosure. Too many things were crowding themselves into this day.

THE second of the most important events of Eve's life was to take place within two hours after her wedding. Two sharp sounds of the buzzer summoned her to the office of Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's. Although her work took her to Barnes' office many times each day, Eve felt half-sick with trepidation this time. She trembled involuntarily, and her head throbbed with a dull ache. A swift glance in the wavy old mirror hanging over the washstand in the corner reassured her, and the group gathered about Barnes' desk little suspected that the lovely, flushed face and eager, bright eyes of the girl joining them masked real fright. Eve's chin was held high, however, and she managed to smile as she acknowledged the salutatory nod of white-haired Mr. Bixby, founder and owner of the store. So much depended upon the outcome of this conference.

Barnes drew up a chair for Eve, next to Alice Marshall, who was first assistant advertising manager. Mr. Bixby brought from his vest pocket a pair of Oxford glasses which he unfolded and adjusted on his dignified nose. "The better to see you, my dear," thought Eve, and she felt that with the aid of those powerful lenses he could pierce through to her innermost thoughts and discover her secret.

"Miss Bayless," he began with customary dignity, "you are undoubtedly aware that it is the policy of the Bixby store to watch carefully the progress of each of its employees. From the time you joined us we have noted with satisfaction your spirit toward your work, your cooperation and your initiative." Mr. Bixby smoothed the narrow black ribbon to his glasses before he went on.

"Miss Marshall is leaving us, as you, of course, know. And it becomes necessary for us to choose a successor to fill her position. Mr. Barnes and I discussed the matter of the New York trip after my talk with you this morning, Miss Bayless, and it has been definitely decided that you are to go."

"Oh—how nice!" Eve managed to articulate.

"It will give added interest and importance to the launching of your special column and ought to give you talking points for many weeks to come. Women read department store advertising primarily for the purpose of learning of bargains and new merchandise. I've always contended, however, that in addition advertising should be chatty and interesting in itself. Well, we're counting on you to make Bixby's advertising chatty and interesting."

"What this change may lead to eventually depends largely upon yourself—the selling power of your copy, your initiative and the ability you display in other ways."

"Thank you. I'll do my very best," Eve promised. "Do you—did you definitely decide that I'm to go tonight? I could go a little later just as well." Eve was praying in her heart, "Not tonight. Dear God, don't let it be tonight!"

MR. BIXBY frowned slightly. "Yes, you are to start tonight. I thought that point was definitely understood. As you know, Miss Marshall leaves Saturday. We want you here the following Monday."

"Go up to my office," Mr. Bixby went on, "and Miss Birney will take care of your expense money. She's wired for a hotel reservation and ordered your transportation. Take whatever time you need this afternoon to go home and pack or for shopping." With an indulgent smile he dismissed an exultant yet frightened Eve.

AS she packed for the trip Eve remembered regretfully that she really had very little beside her clothes to take to her new home. She had never, as do many girls, bought pretty things to adorn her future home. Esther, her sister, had dozens of lovely gifts to take with her when she married. But Esther had had a long engagement to a home town boy, showers, engagement parties, and a wedding to which a wide circle of relatives and friends were invited. Those things meant so much to Esther. With Eve marriage was important, but so was her career.

Eve recalled how she had started at Bixby's. Determined to get a foothold as a copy writer, she had made the rounds of all the agencies and all the stores in Lake City before she reached Bixby's. The fact that no one needed a beginner and frankly told her so, had not discouraged her but merely put her on her mettle. Then she did what she considered a daring, preposterous thing. She went to Bixby's, most exclusive store of all, and begged Earle Barnes, the advertising manager, to give her a trial. "Never mind discussing salary now," she had said. "Let me work two weeks. Then give me what you think I'm worth." And that astute gentleman, who prided himself on his shrewdness in judging an applicant's character and ability, had told her to go ahead.

"But remember," he warned her, "I'm not promising you a definite job. There isn't an opening here at present. You'll have to make a place for yourself. Browse around here and there in the store. If you see merchandise that looks to you like news, write about it. If you make good—"

And Eve had made good. Now Barnes was demonstrating his faith in her ability by giving her a column in Bixby's daily advertisement to fill with chatty comment on the fashions, new merchandise and the like. And to give the column an impressive start, Eve was to have a week in New York. Two days with Freda Carter, the dress buyer, on her way home from Paris with trunks filled with gowns from the Rue de la Paix, and the rest of the week to look about for herself. Eve's heart should sing, she told herself, instead of lying like a lump of lead and interfering with her breathing. Her heart should sing because she was Dick's wife. But this evening—the evening of their wedding—she was going to New York without him. And Dick had not yet been told that she was going.

It was 5:40 that evening before Eve, almost breathless with haste and excitement, emerged from Bixby's. Dick was waiting. There was something almost pathetic about the way she approached him. "Oh, Dick, I've kept you waiting!" she cried, penitent, as she slipped her arm through his. And something reassuring, protecting, in his answer that he would always be waiting for her.

The November day had turned stormy and Eve brushed the snow from Dick's shoulders as they reached his roadster. How handsome he looked in his new navy-blue camel's hair overcoat. There was an air of unassuming prosperity about him. Dick tucked her in, pressed her hand and closed the door. When he slipped behind the wheel and started the motor Eve leaned over and kissed him. With a quick look to see that no one was near, Dick gathered her in his arms for a brief instant and as quickly let her go. She would tell him now. Might as well have it over.

"Dick," she began, "I have something very, very important to tell you."

"Better wait till we get out of this traffic," he warned. "We'll have a lot to talk over then."

And Eve was glad for the delay. It was not going to be easy to tell him. They followed the boulevard out toward the Heights. Dick driving at the rate of 25 miles an hour to keep with the green lights and avoid abrupt stopping on the slippery asphalt. Eve was sick with worry. She snuggled as closely as she dared to Dick's arm.

"Happy?" he asked.

"You know I am," she told him and managed to smile. They drove to Mission Inn for their wedding dinner. Eve was glad that Dick had selected this charming place. The evergreens outside the imposing, tile-roofed stucco building were mantled with Christmas-like whiteness. Inside, soft organ music came from the chapel.

AT their table—a small one set for two—the southern California influence for which Mission Inn had been named was even more in evidence. A starred ceiling of heavenly blue shut out the winter night and storm. Wisteria trailed along the eaves and hung in purple clusters. Brilliantly colored parakeets looked saucily at the diners from their ringed perches near the fountain. Here was a lemon tree in a green tub and there an orange tree or an oleander. The air was fragrant with exotic blossoms. On a wrought iron balcony above sat a señorita in yellow, wearing a black lace mantilla and a red rose in her hair. She was picking out soft melodies on a golden harp.

Dick had reserved the table and ordered the dinner. Excited and worried as she was, Eve realized that she was hungry. She remembered now that she had eaten nothing since breakfast. She sipped the mushroom soup, with its unusual piquancy of flavor, for which the inn was famous, and ate with relish the baked squash which was another specialty of the place. When the dessert arrived—frozen cream molded in the form of mission bells—she looked thoughtfully across the table at Dick.

"Our wedding bells, Dick," she smiled wistfully.

"I like it this way," he said. "Without all the fuss and excitement. Just we two in a world by ourselves."

"By ourselves . . . by ourselves," Eve murmured. Then she took the plunge.

"Darling," she began, "I've been trying to tell you for an hour. I—nothing has ever been so hard for me! I can scarcely begin—but would you feel dreadfully if I had to leave you?"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By George Duran

HUDDLES
The manufacturers wasted no time in snapping back at their potential enemies the retailers.

As related here several days ago the retailers held a secret meeting and raised a war fund to battle any provisions in manufacturers' codes aimed at either price-fixing or reductions in standard trade discounts.

The boys who make the products you buy heard about this huddle and called one of their own.

SECRET SIX
An informal meeting was held in Washington. It led to a more representative assemblage of manufacturers in New York Monday.

Behind the protective and retaliatory movement was the "Secret Six". This is the organization that evolved out of an original effort to build up an "American Federation of Manufacturers" to fight the American Federation of Labor some weeks ago.

It was agreed the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Manufacturers Association hadn't come across to factory owners with the desired representation here in Washington.

Plans were laid to raise funds to perpetuate the Secret Six through the NRA. The new outfit could then supersede the C. of C. and the Manufacturers' association as far as the manufacturers are concerned.

The kick was that instead of getting their case before NRA and the Administration generally these two organizations have been specializing in statements to the newspapers under plain and fancy headlines.

Action; not mimeographed hand-outs" seems to be the slogan of the Secret Six which, being secret, doesn't give a rap for publicity.

DEAF

The avalanche of propaganda aimed against the Securities Act seems to have hit a snag.

Promoters, bankers and brokers from New York and other large money centers, who inspired it are just waking up to the fact the Roosevelt administration is pretty deaf and unimpressed.

Their hopes of getting the Act's teeth trimmed and bent at the coming session of congress aren't so bright as they were when the "campaign of public education" started.

If President Roosevelt listens to the advice of the Federal Trade Commission he will leave the legislation—designed to protect amateur investors from the big bad wolf—just as it is.

This is the agency charged with making the promoters of any stock flotation tell all in their prospectuses.

Despite the blood-curdling complaints from Wall Street the Commission says more securities—of a kind—have been floated since the act went into effect than last year or the year before.

BIG GAME

Now that the President has issued his order making Blue Eagle chiselers liable to jail sentences and fines the populace is sitting back waiting to turn thumbs down on a really fat victim.

Judging from comments around Washington the customers won't be satisfied with the destruction of a picayune martyr such as a lunch wagon proprietor from Oklahoma or a beauty shoppe madame from the hinterlands.

Telegrams and letters pouring into the White House and General Johnson's office indicate they want a big squeeze they can really sink their teeth in.

VIOLETORS

Evidence of unconscionable violations of NRA codes is available.

TASTY as milk

THINK of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil as you think of milk . . . they're so much alike; both so good for children—and grown-ups too. In fact, a single tablespoonful of Scott's Emulsion contains more vitamin A than does a whole quart of milk.

Vitamin A is what builds up the body's resistance to many diseases and minor ills—especially "colds" and the more serious complications which often follow.

What's more, Scott's Emulsion is also rich in vitamin D, so wonderful in building strong bones and sound teeth.

And, Scott's Emulsion is so easy to take—so pleasant to the taste—that children actually love it! Do try it. Pure, effective, and trustworthy for sixty years—and better today than ever. All drug-gists, 60¢ and $1.20.

able here in Washington in abundance. Unions and public-spirited citizens have flooded compliance boards with the harrowing details of cases in point.

Some of them would hit nationally known industrial plants if applied.

The question seems to be: Is this merely another threat such as those whispered and shouted at gold hoarders?

BEE

Is James W. Wadsworth getting active or isn't he?

Political observers suspect that the former Republican Senator from New York who is now a Congressman already has launched his formal bid for the G. O. P. presidential nomination in 1936.

At least they think he made a slightly perceptible nod in that direction the other night in Baltimore.

The former big shot of New York state politics spoke at a rally in the Maryland metropolis.

This in itself had no particular significance as even Republicans are entitled to pull off rallies in lean years.

What did strike the ear-to-the-ground boys as amazing strange was the dinner that preceded the rally.

Some fifteen hand-picked Republican leaders were present when dinner was announced. Others who supposedly bear more or less weight in the Party in the Free State were conspicuous by their absence.

Wadsworth, as one of the original shouters for prohibition repeal, may well be plowing fertile soil in first visiting Maryland. The State always has been.

It has been remarkably faithful to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, its four-time Democratic Governor, but has voted Republican nationally several times during that handsome gentleman's local reign.

WHERE?

With Wadsworth emulating the tactics of President Roosevelt before Chicago and building up an organization at long-range the boys around the cracker-barrel are wondering how long it will be before the others come half-way into the open.

Did Ogden Mills give the answer when he came out for LaGuardia in New York? There will be a sweet set-up for Mills to work with in the LaGuardia-Mellen combination brings home the bacon.

Bert Snell—also of New York—is still to be heard from.

NOTES

Most newspaper men in Washington have come to the conclusion General Johnson is getting a little jittery . . . They have no complaint with his having barred from press conferences the author of a "confidential weekly letter" for private consumption of business men, bankers, etc. . . They do question Johnson's delay until the writer's weekly observations (highly critical) began to get under his skin . . . "Freedom of the press" is not involved apparently with the bulk of the Washington newspaper corps . . . Rather it is a question of why didn't you bar him in the first place?

MARGINS

History repeats itself when the stock market jumps off the deep end last week.

Sudden stiffening of the margin requirements on the alky stocks pushed it over the cliff in July. The brokerage houses didn't make that mistake again. But last week several banks announced broader margin requirements on a dozen or so of the more active issues.

They do the same as saying stocks were not worth their current prices. Plenty of nervous traders took the hint when the market opened the next morning and the snowball started rolling again.

The banks will tell you they had no idea they were starting anything. It was just a precautionary measure. But you can find plenty of sound opinion that it did not come under the head of cooperation. Also that the timing was deadly.

SPECULATION

Of course it wouldn't have had this effect if the market hadn't been ready to go boom anyway. But several of the biggest-scale traders had got in over their ears on the bull side and were in no position to defend themselves when the break came. This speeded the collapse once it began.

SHORTS

The big bad wolf of short selling can't be blamed this time.

CRACK CLUB TEAMS PLAY FOR UNEMPLOYED

LIONS FAVERED OVER SPARTANS IN BOWL GAME

With the gate receipts accruing to the community's unemployed, Santa Ana's Spartans meet Huntington Park's Lions in a benefit football game at the Municipal Bowl tonight.

The kickoff is scheduled at 8 o'clock.

The contest figures as one of the most attractive on the Spartans' entire schedule, and officials hope to raise an amount equal to the worthiness of the game's cause. Last year's unemployed benefit grossed $240.

For this particular game, the admission will be 40 cents, instead of 25 cents, as erroneously reported yesterday.

Undefeated and unscorched on, although recently held to a 0-0 draw by Long Beach, the Huntington Park squad comes here touted as the strongest "independent" eleven south of Santa Barbara. The Lions are light, with a backfield averaging approximately 165 despite the fact that one of the four ball-packers scales 210. They stress speed, shiftiness and passing ability, a combination that has made them a box office attraction everywhere they've started.

"Dusty" Allen, Stanford quarterback last year, is the Huntington Park star. He plays fullback. Allen was regarded as one of the finest passers on the coast during his collegiate days. He has put on pounds since leaving Palo Alto, coming in now at 210, but still throws passes with accuracy. His brother, Al Allen, an end, is frequently on the receiving end of the overhead attack.

Quarterback Cox, Patterson and Smiley, other Huntington Park backs, are considerably lighter than Allen. Cox weights 150, with the two halfbacks rated at 160. Santa Ana's ends will have a busy time stopping their junks.

The Spartans will be near their full strength. Ray Dawson, 200-pound back, has recovered from injuries that have kept him on the bench several weeks. He is not listed with Coach Blanchard Beatty's starting lineup, but will see action when needed. Wayne Garlock, ace quarterback, also will be back in a Spartan uniform. His absence from the Western Eagle game, which was lost by one point, was felt keenly by the Spartans who were stopped in scoring territory more than once.

Beatty's lineup showed Toby Groenow, ex-Den, and Harvey Durkee, former Trojan, at ends; Henry Duncan and Dale Gilman, at tackle; Jack Casey, formerly of Loyola, and Henry Lake, former Don, at guard, and "Gib" Meisinger, former Jaysee end, at center. Farlock will start at quarterback, with Lloyd ("Red") Manderscheid and Higash, both ex-Dons at halfback. Bill Savage and Tom Salisbury will alternate at full.

BORDAGARY MAY BE MADE FREE AGENT

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—(INS) Stanley ("Frenchy") Bordagary, star slugger and outfielder of the Sacramento Pacific Coast League baseball club, today claimed his right as a free agent on the grounds that his club owes him $600 in unpaid salary.

Demand for the salary claim was sent to W. G. Bramham, president of the National Minor League association.

Bramham, in reply, explained that while a player does not automatically become a free agent for non-payment of salary, the association is favorably inclined toward the player where the club does not meet its obligations.

The Sacramento club was given until Nov. 4 to acknowledge the debt. Lewis Moreling, owner of the Solons, is expected to protest Bordagary's free agent claim, inasmuch as he is considered worth from $15,000 to $25,000 to certain major league clubs at present.

OREGON, COAST LEADER, PLAYS BRUINS IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Oregon, the only untied and unbeaten major team on the coast, will pit its perfect record against the growing Bruins here Saturday when the two teams meet in their sixth annual contest.

The Webfeet, with victories over Washington and Idaho, lead conference standings and believe that "Iron Man" Mikulak, aided by Mark Temple and Leighton Gee, halves, and Bob Parke, quarterback, can maintain their unbroken record by topping the best ground-gaining efforts of Frankovich, Cheshire, Livesay and Joe Keeble. Fans look for a great battle as the carriage trade, and Pennsylvania may have a large stadium completely devoid of a great many people.

Penn Jealous of Warner

Of course, the emergency may not be urgent at this time. But if you think the graduate manager at Pennsylvania likes having Mr. Warner in the same town with him, you've been eating too many pretzels at bedtime.

In other words, reform is an admirable thing and virtue is so splendid that it's almost unknown, for reasons that are several and obvious. Nobody ever paid $90 to a speculator to see virtue sit on a monument. Besides, unless reform is general, its proponent is liable to find himself in a position that is both untenable and unfashionable.

Pennsylvania already is beginning to wonder vaguely about that as it contemplates the disturbing activities of a rival college further up-town. N. Y. U. also is doing a little meditating, but it isn't being vague about it. It knows that Fordham isn't de-emphasizing in the least. In any case, Jimmy Crowley, the coach, has no reason to think so.

Comparisons show that the team's rate on a par. So far each has allowed only one touchdown to cross its goal. Oregon has amassed 106 points to 54 for the Bruins, but the latter has faced stiffer competition and has played one less game.

Following is the complete record of Oregon-U. C. L. A. games:

1928, Oregon 26; U. C. L. A. 6.

1929, Oregon 27; U. C. L. A. 0.

1930, Oregon 7; U. C. L. A. 0.

1931, Oregon 13; U. C. L. A. 6.

1932, Oregon 7; U. C. L. A. 12.

Another individual battle is expected between Cheshire, Bruin halfback, and Bob Park for kicking honors. Last week Cheshire averaged about 43 yards, with Parke turning in a slightly better mark against Washington.

Football Camps

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—Several cases of disappearance or "star-titis" were reported in the S. C. camp today, tormenting Coach Howard Jones not little. Several demotions were contemplated in an effort to whip the squad into a proper fighting state for the California game Saturday.

Los Angeles—Heavy scrimage was cancelled today to spare the linemen and bandage in a few cuts.

Coach Morris, star fullback, injured last Saturday, and Bob Hamilton, another backfield ace out of action for three weeks, returned to practice.

BERKELEY—California's starting backfield for the U. S. C. game here appeared today to be Stewart at quarterback, Chuck Cotton at the ball carrying, and Kenyon as blocking halfback, and Jim Keefee at fullback. Arleigh Williams may replace Cotton for the final selection.

SAN FRANCISCO—"Ten cent" football will be featured here Friday when St. Mary's plays University of Nevada at Kegar stadium. All persons under 21 will be admitted for a dime; all others for 50 cents.

SAN FRANCISCO—A two-hour bruising scrimage drill had the U. S. F. Dons near top form today for Sunday's meeting with Gonzaga here.

EUGENE, Ore.—The conference-leading University of Oregon eleven will leave tonight for Los Angeles to play the U. C. L. A. Saturday. Regular tackle will not see action against the Bruins. Trainer Bill Hayward announced.

SEATTLE—Homer Dernin, regular center, was tried out at the fullback position today as a means of bolstering Washington's defense against Stanford Saturday. Dernin, who has scored in a conference game.

PULLMAN, Wash.—Mentor Dahmen, coach-kid, of the Washington State squad, was given a thorough drill in his specialty today in preparation for the Oregon State game. Dahmen missed his only shot in the State-California game which ended in a 6-6 tie.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—Coach Lon Stine ordered "secret" practice today after the Oregon State Beavers. Stine is developing a new offense to try against Washington State whom the Beavers haven't defeated in five years.

U. S. COLLEGES GLAMORING FOR GRID VICTORIES

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—There has been more than a hint for some weeks that, if the under-grade and older-grads had their way, football de-emphasis as now being prosecuted earnestly at two of our better institutions would be thrown out on the trolley tracks to die in its own blood.

The situation began to come to a head up at New York university today with the story that an insistent clamor was being raised on the campus for the return of the days when football at N. Y. U. was a reality rather than a legend.

At the same time, word comes from Philadelphia that the Gates Plan is working perfectly at Pennsylvania; so perfectly, in fact, that there is understood to be a great deal of agitation about the attempt of Temple university to get into the big-business group of football teams.

Temple it seems, has been more practical about what changes it has cared to introduce. It didn't adopt a plan. It hired a system. Even going so far, in fact, as to hire the originator of same, "Pop" Warner, at what the boys call a princely salary. The result is that in a year or two at the most, Temple might be in a fair way to attract what is known as the carriage trade, and Pennsylvania may have a large stadium completely devoid of a great many people.

Penn Jealous of Warner

Of course, the emergency may not be urgent at this time. But if you think the graduate manager at Pennsylvania likes having Mr. Warner in the same town with him, you've been eating too many pretzels at bedtime.

In other words, reform is an admirable thing and virtue is so splendid that it's almost unknown, for reasons that are several and obvious. Nobody ever paid $90 to a speculator to see virtue sit on a monument. Besides, unless reform is general, its proponent is liable to find himself in a position that is both untenable and unfashionable.

Pennsylvania already is beginning to wonder vaguely about that as it contemplates the disturbing activities of a rival college further up-town. N. Y. U. also is doing a little meditating, but it isn't being vague about it. It knows that Fordham isn't de-emphasizing in the least.

It was suggested to one of those clamoring old grads today that the acquisition of a hot team some time involves a question of ethics, to which his pithy rejoinder was: "You can't cheer an ethic."

There was a time when the Big Three would have shuddered at the thought of getting a coach who was not an alumnus but in recent years Princeton and Yale have seen the light and, if reports from Cambridge today are true, Harvard is about to see it.

Princeton acquired Fritz Crisler from the Big Ten to teach them football and suddenly a real team blossomed on the campus. After years of floundering with old Yale men, Yale suddenly went Notre Dame and brought on Adam Walsh. Harvard still sticks to a loyal son but report has it that the Crimson is about ready to seek elsewhere for a new coach.

Further embarrassment of this kind is contributed by the presence in town of Lou Little, who may not win all his games at Columbia but puts on a good show, meaning that he dresses up the act and sends it down in front as an eye and ear entertainment.

Moreover, not too many miles away is a Mr. Crisler, who in two years at Princeton has so de-emphasized that he's liable to sell the joint out two or three times over this season.

South, Coast Like Football

I notice, too, that Alabama, Duke and other Southern colleges are still striving to win and that the coast is preparing to play to turnaway crowds at its big games. In addition, the first thought that seemed to have occurred to Notre Dame after it lost to Carnegie Tech was that the defeat would cost it $25,000 off the receipts for the next game or two and, on the same day, Michigan and Ohio State are said to have played to more than $35,000 which doesn't look as if even the loser was feeling especially bad.

Ther is naturally something to be said for de-emphasis in football but it looks right now as if President Gates of Pennsylvania and Professor Badger of N. Y. U. will have to say it. The latter, in fact, has already said it, for on his wall, I understand, is the legend: "A Badger Never Quits."

Maybe this is one of my mistakes but somehow after learning this about the professor I am unable to feel any great confidence in a change for either the better or worse at N. Y. U. In fact, it even seems possible that N. Y. U. might not exactly know where the worse ended and the better began.

Acquarelli Leads Prep Loop Scorers

Harry Acquarelli, hula-hipped Pasadena quarterback, forged into the Coast Preparatory league scoring lead with one touchdown against Glendale Saturday, the only player in the conference who has tallied more than 6 points.

Halfback Paul Hendrie is the only Santa Ana who has scored in a conference game.

The standings:

Pts. Acquarelli, Pasadena, quarterback, 12

Hendrie, Santa Ana, halfback, 6

Riddell, Pasadena, end, 6

Berryman, Long Beach, fullback, 6

McCowen, Long Beach, halfback, 6

Barton, Long Beach, end, 6

SCHOOL BOARD TO SEEK LOAN FOR REPAIRS

Preliminary steps were taken today toward filing of an application by the Santa Ana board of education for school reconstruction funds under provisions of the Green bill approved last May by the state legislature.

Decision to make the application under provisions of the Green bill was reached this morning at an adjourned meeting of the school board when Andrew P. Hill Jr., in charge of schoolhouse reconstruction for the state department of education, stressed the need of haste in applying for assistance.

The money will be used in remodeling buildings in the city school system that were damaged in the earthquake of last March and will come from the fund allocated to the state by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for that purpose. Hill said that there remains of the fund allocated to this state approximately $3,500,000. December 16 is the time limit set for making allocations under provisions of the bill.

Survey Made

G. P. Morris, engineer for the state division of architects, has been in Santa Ana for several weeks making a survey of the high school group. Morris has forwarded his findings to State Architect MacDougall and until the building plans and specifications and Morris' findings have been checked an accurate estimate of the cost of reconstruction cannot be made.

Hill informed the board that pending receipt of this accurate information an approximate estimate of the amount of money required to reconstruct damaged buildings and make them earthquake proof can be arrived at. He advised the board of education to immediately appoint an architect who, after approval by the state board of architects, will have access to all data compiled by Morris during his investigation. Morris has received instructions to co-operate with the architect in arriving at an estimate of the cost of reconstruction work here.

Appeal At Once

Hill told the board members that it is necessary for the board to immediately file their application, basing it upon the estimated cost arrived at by the architect to be appointed, after conferring with Morris and checking plans of the buildings and damages.

In filing the application the amount allowed on the original testboard does not have to sign the grant, it was said.

MAN KILLED AS WRITER OF LETTER BOOM FALLS IN OBJECT OF SEARCH BIG GAS PLANT

John L. Wilson, 42, 617 East Ninetieth street, Los Angeles, was instantly killed and E. H. Bremley, also of Los Angeles, was slightly injured at the Seal Beach plant of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric company at 10:30 o'clock this morning when a 90 foot boom, carrying two ton of lumber fell.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. Wilson was working on the boom, and Bremley, foreman of the crew, was overseeing the lifting of the lumber when suddenly the mast supporting the boom cracked and collapsed. The boom and lumber fell with such rapidity that Wilson was unable to get out from under the boom and was crushed to death under the lumber and boom.

Wilson was a married man and is survived by four children. His body was removed to the Dixon Undertaking parlors in Huntington Beach and an inquest is pending, according to Coroner Earl Abbey.

UNKNOWN MOTORIST BLAMED FOR DEATH

Lewis J. Smith, 79, who was fatally injured by a hit and run driver Sunday night near his home east of Anaheim, came to his death from a skull fracture caused by being struck by an automobile whose driver is unknown. It was decided by a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon at the inquest conducted from the Hilgenfeld Funeral home in Anaheim.

The death of Smith brought the total of traffic fatalities in the county this year to 43. He was standing at the scene of another accident on Placentia avenue when struck by the second car. He died Monday at the Fullerton General hospital. Authorities are seeking the hit and run driver and hold the belief that he may not have realized the aged man was hit.

Smith lived in Santa Ana for nine years before moving to Anaheim five years ago. Funeral services were held this morning with interment in Loma Vista cemetery.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—(UP)—George W. (Red) Kerr, sought for several months in connection with a $200,000 mail robbery in Sacramento, Cal., last February, was held today for California authorities.

Kerr was arrested by postal inspectors in a north side hotel. He will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for a removal hearing.

U. S. Attorney H. H. McPike, San Francisco, had requested Chicago officers to search for Kerr.

The robbery, McPike said, was planned in Chicago by the Touhy gang.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, after being buffeted through the night by a strong wind, landed at 5 a. m. (E. S. T.) today at the Akron airport.

Although the Graf was tied to the mooring mast at 5:04 a. m., it was not until 6:39 a. m. that the huge ship was backed into the hangar—the same hangar that once housed the ill-fated U. S. S. Akron and the new United States dirigible, the U. S. Macon.

"The campaign has come down to the point where our workers must 'bear down,'" said William J. Tway, director of the campaign. "By this we do not mean exerting undue influence on the prospective giver, but rather putting pressure and drive into their own efforts. Few days remain in which the work must be done. If it is not the youth and the unfortunate of this community will be neglected or will suffer proportionately," the director said.

Throughout the night, the huge Graf had cruised over the city, waiting for the wind and rain squalls to abate. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, veteran of half a hundred transatlantic crossings, radioed constantly to officials at the airport, that he would remain aloft until the wind had died down to 15 miles per hour.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, veteran of half a hundred transatlantic crossings, radioed constantly to officials at the airport, that he would remain aloft until the wind had died down to 15 miles per hour.

AKRON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, after being buffeted through the night by a strong wind, landed at 5 a. m. (E. S. T.) today at the Akron airport.

Although the Graf was tied to the mooring mast at 5:04 a. m., it was not until 6:39 a. m. that the huge ship was backed into the hangar—the same hangar that once housed the ill-fated U. S. S. Akron and the new United States dirigible, the U. S. Macon.

"The campaign has come down to the point where our workers must 'bear down,'" said William J. Tway, director of the campaign. "By this we do not mean exerting undue influence on the prospective giver, but rather putting pressure and drive into their own efforts. Few days remain in which the work must be done. If it is not the youth and the unfortunate of this community will be neglected or will suffer proportionately," the director said.

Throughout the night, the huge Graf had cruised over the city, waiting for the wind and rain squalls to abate. ation they get out of it is to say: "We told you what would happen when you started talking about sound money." They are ringing the changes on that theme to a fare-yo-well where they think it will do the most good. This means Congressional, farm and small business circles rather than administration quarters.

FEDERALES

The Federal Reserve gesture of lowering the rediscount rate on the day the market took its worst beating was like using a motor boat to tow a crippled liner into port. The rediscount rate means nothing because of the absence of credit demand. The Federal Reserve knows that perfectly well but thought the illusion of easy money might help the old psychology.

The Reserve buying program has finally switched to take in long term governments as well as short term stuff.

This should help the market for long terms and take some of the load off the member banks. It should also make the latter more receptive to further long term issues which will be on the way in the next few months.

WRONG

Wise boys in Wall Street saw a plot in Barriger's plan for a merger between the B. & O. and the Pennsy. Wasn't Barriger General Atterbury's white-haired boy? Wouldn't he be sure to toss the Pennsylvania something very juicy—still hidden at this stage of the game? This is as likely as that One Eyed Connolly would pay his way into a ball game. John Barriger's association with General Atterbury, Walker D. Hines and other choo-choo magnates is based solely on his phenomenal knowledge of technical details and railroad finance. That's why the Roosevelt administration entrusted him with his R. F. C. job—in spite of the fact that he's a die-hard Republican.

TRAFFIC

A local railroad expert has doped it out that railroad freight traffic is now exactly where it should be on a rising scale charted from 1882 to 1936 in spite of competition from other carriers. He maintains that the war and post-war booms were artificial and couldn't be expected to last. His point is that the roads have no right to expect vast gains from here on and should shape their operation plans accordingly.

DECLINE

The decline in the heavy industries is not all due to labor troubles. Part of it comes from the building up of speculative inventories last summer which have not been sold and are not likely to be soon. Only aggressive action on the public works program can do much toward getting this vital section of industry back in balance.

DIVIDENDS

One bit of good cheer is bound to develop between now and the end of the year. A number of preferred and common dividends are certain to be restored or scaled up no matter what the business trend between now and January.

16 NEW STATE LAWS GO INTO EFFECT TODAY

BY GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(UPI)—Sixteen legislative bills became laws today, affecting schools, judges' salaries, tax delinquent property redemption, state employees' junkets and fish and game rules.

The bills were passed during the July session of the state legislature. They were not considered emergency measures, so were permitted to become effective in the routine course of time.

A referendum held up one bill—the Central Valley Water project—and forced a special election December 19.

State support of the California Nautical school will be ended June 30, 1934, under terms of one bill. The merchant marine training institute will have to seek elsewhere for its funds, although pledged federal aid may finance the school for a few months beyond June 30.

There will be no more 4½-year-old kindergarten pupils. A new law makes 5 years the minimum age for kindergarten entry.

Non-resident students in California's seven teachers' colleges must pay $75 for tuition the first semester and $37.50 each semester thereafter.

School superintendents must pay for their own conventions, rather than relying upon state support.

Salaries of superior judges were slashed as a result of another bill. Those in Colusa county were trimmed from $6000 to $5000 annually, and Orange and San Bernardino counties slashed salaries from $7000 to $6000. Los Angeles and Long Beach municipal judges were cut from $7500 to $6500.

Two important bills affected redemption of tax delinquent land given to the state.

Local government agencies were authorized to purchase property deeded to the state for non-payment. This would give irrigation and other districts, with claims against the land, opportunity to obtain title.

The other bill reduced sales costs and eliminated the necessity by county tax collectors obtaining permission from the state controller before auctioning land for taxes.

The board of control was given authority, in another bill, to fix maximum traveling expenses of state officers and employees. This was devised to end complaints of extravagance.

Power of the state insurance commissioner to appoint special attorneys in liquidation proceedings was transferred to the state attorney general.

A new sportsman's bill changes regulations concerning fishing for Marlin swordfish, white sea bass, baracuda and yellowtail in Southern California waters.

COAST GROUP URGES MAIN ST. EXTENSION

Information Sought On U. S. Funds

A delegation of Orange county officials was in Los Angeles today to secure definite information as to procedure in an attempt to have the government pay costs on an Orange county flood control program estimated to cost around $8,000,000.

The delegation was comprised of Supervisor W. C. Jerome, C. Roy Browning and William Wallin, the latter two being newly elected directors of the new Orange County Water district.

The movement to get the government to pay costs of the project followed information given to a group of officials and water users here by Ross Shafer, Tustin, who said that the government representatives of the national public works program in Los Angeles has told him that all flood control projects have been called to Washington, D. C., will be favorably considered for immediate action, and would be handled directly by the government without medium of state groups. The information was verified late yesterday by Supervisor Jerome in a telephone conversation with the Los Angeles representatives.

"The Hon. Phil Stanton informed us at the last meeting that funds for the roads would not be available for some time," said Browning, "but I can't see why the so-called county welfare workers cannot be used to move dirt. It would be a good start for the project."

The resolution was introduced by Roy W. Peacock, of Laguna Beach, chairman of a special committee named at a conference between the board of supervisors and the board of directors of the water district late yesterday afternoon in the courthouse.

Chairman Willard Smith of the board of supervisors assured the water board of county support, and offered the services and records of the Orange County flood control department to the directors. He said Murray Thompson, flood control engineer, would eliminate the water conservation features of the Elliott plan, which would be presented as a county flood control project and forwarded to Washington.

How the water board can finance its first year of operation before tax money comes in was discussed with the board of supervisors. Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton promised the water board he would deliver them a written opinion on how to proceed in the near future.

OVERFLOW STUDENT CROWD GREETS SPEAKER BANNED FROM JAYCEE PLATFORM

"Schools and colleges must educate young people to face the facts of life and meet controversial issues squarely," declared Norman Thomas, noted Socialist leader and presidential candidate, as the keynote of his speech last night at James cafe before a group of more than 200 junior college students.

The meeting was arranged as a protest by student leaders after school authorities had cancelled the appearance of Thomas at the regular student assembly to avoid criticism from various groups in Orange county. Nearly 100 students were unable to gain admission to the crowded banquet room.

"No audience has had a more collective inferior intelligence than in colleges, and education has fallen down in preparing young people," Thomas said. "During the past few years college diplomas have gone into the breadlines instead of preparing graduates to face the problems of this complex society. Formal education has erred greatly in discouraging controversy unless approved policies are upheld."

Hunger and Injustice "Until we deport hunger and injustice in America, we will and ought to have strikes such as those in the cotton fields of California," the speaker said. "We will be fortunate if future strikes are as peaceful as this one. Special privilege and similar forces which are binding us down must be overthrown. We must secure a civil liberty for which men have died and which is our only hope to make democracy work."

Thomas scored the public utilities, especially the electric companies, and said their practices of extortion were inexcusable. He challenged them to explain why consumers in this country paid three and four times as much for electricity as residents of Canada.

BETTER HOMES HELD REMEDY AGAINST CRIME

with his usual review of current events of the week. After reading a comprehensive review of world conditions, in which unemployment, war and turbulence were described, he started the capacity audience by announcing that he was reading from a magazine printed in October, 1874.

The speaker denounced the theory of destroying crops to raise prices and said that the problem of distribution was far more important and vital. He advocated that tariff walls should be broken down gradually to permit the operation of world trade and exchange of products in all countries.

"Conditions under a low tariff could not possibly be any worse than those which have come about from a high tariff," Dr. Frederick charged. "Economic life would be disorganized by sudden change in tariff regulations but there would be far less chaos and calamity if all nations would recognize the advantages of low tariffs."

Answering a question regarding the supply of oranges in foreign countries, Dr. Roman said that he always had difficulty in getting California fruit and that it was priced exorbitantly in virtually all countries. He blamed this condition on poor methods of exchange and insufficient production to meet the foreign demand.

"The cost of war is another reason for depression," the leader said. "Few people realize that 80 per cent of the national income is spent for past and future wars with everything else claiming a share of the remaining 20 per cent. How admirable it would be if this proponderance of arms expense could be lowered to enable other social agencies to be helped. Foreign countries, as well as the United States, are unwilling to lay down arms and expect to secure peace through war, something which has never been accomplished."

Harry S. Gerhart announced that he will give an address Thursday night in place of the usual talk by Walter Thomas Mills on technocracy. Gerhart will lead a forum on modern education, starting at 7:30 p.m. He announced also that all workers were invited to the Orange County Regional Congress of Farmers and Workers for Economic Reconstruction to be held Saturday afternoon and evening in the Temple theater.

Orange county's bill for $8997.71 for repairing earthquake damaged highways, part of the total cost of $34,962.08 caused by the shock, was forwarded yesterday by the board of supervisors to the state department of public works. Payment will be made from the $150,000 appropriated by the state for that purpose immediately after the earthquake of last March.

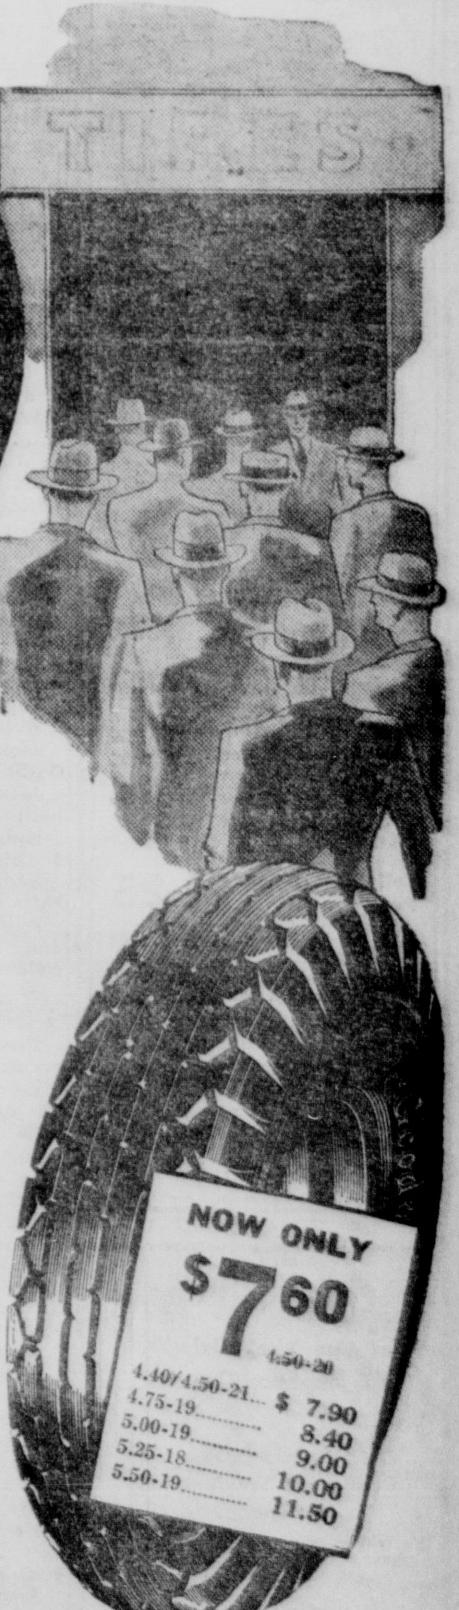

Of the total amount appropriated by the state approximately $20,000 was apportioned to Orange county and municipalities within the county. The city of Santa Ana, according to Supervisor W. C. Jerome, received approximately $9000, an additional $8997.71, covering the actual cost of all repair work to highways in the unincorporated areas will be repaid to the county and the city of Newport Beach was given approximately $2000.

The county share of the fund was expended principally in districts one, two and five where the major portion of the highway damage was done during the quake. The amount included in the bill forwarded yesterday covers all highway repairs made necessary by the earthquake.

With return of the $8997.71 to the county from the state the earthquake actually will have cost the county $25,564.37 for repairing damages to buildings, the park at Westminster and miscellaneous expenses such as hiring guards for the stricken areas during the week of the shake.

The largest item in the cost of repairing quake damage was $18,152.17 for restoration and repairs to the court house, the most seriously damaged of all county buildings. Other repairs and their cost were: county hospital, $1399.40; hall of records, $971.38; court house annex, $227.56; garage building, $1669.07; Westminster park, $357.07, and miscellaneous expenses $3187.72.

Two Orange Hostesses
Present Luncheon in Local Tea Rooms

One of the loveliest social affairs of the fall was the luncheon given by Mrs. Carl J. Nelson and Mrs. Margaret Sackett of Orange at the Doris-Kathy's complimenting Mrs. Noelle E. White of Brawley. Mrs. White, formerly Mrs. Rose Richards, was married last year and has been spending several days in Orange before establishing her home in Brawley.

A four course luncheon was served and a seasonal color scheme was stressed in appointments for the table. Flowers were in copper and rust tones and the colors were repeated in place cards and bridge tallies. An especially lovely note in the decorations was seen in the jade candle holders in which were placed tall orange candles.

Prizes at bridge were awards to Mrs. Ray Krueger who was presented with a copper radio lamp. Mrs. W. S. Lentz who was given a copper hanging basket, and Mrs. Burh Winkler, awarded a serving tray in which copper shades predominated. Mrs. White was showered with numerous gifts. Bidden to the pleasant affair were Mesdames W. T. Loscher, Herbert Batterman, Paul Muench, Dana Point; Mr. and Mrs. Claude McMahan and children, Beatrice, Gordon and Lowell of Placentia.

The program following a business session included a talk on "The Origin of Hallowe'en" by Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and vocal solo by Miss Helen Marshall.

Refreshments were served by a hostess committee composed of Mesdames Clyde Bach, Elizabeth Clark, George Rowell, P. R. Reynolds, L. H. Martin, Cora Ruge and Miss Preble Drake.

MOTORIST CITED

ORANGE, Oct. 25.—Howard Neth will appear in the court of Judge A. W. Swayze October 31, by Officer John Elstite for violations of traffic laws. Neth is charged with driving without an operator's license, no registration certificate, no tail light and but one head light.

The after dinner program included dances by the Misses Gloria Bradford, June Tway, Mary Murphy and Velma Stroud, pupils of Vera Marilyn Getty; violin solos by Russell Dickinson and Miss Margaret Robinson; whistling solos by Jack Tucker Bronson of Hollywood.

The young people will make their home at 170 South Mountain View, Los Angeles. Mr. Jones, after his graduation from Santa Ana Junior college attended University of Southern California, graduating from the School of Business Administration. Immediately after completion of his course he accepted a position with the Pacific Fruit and Produce company with headquarters in Los Angeles.

His lovely young bride had her high school training in Merced, later attending the School of Costume Designing at U. S. C., and Friday's marriage was the culmination of a campus romance. In addition to her interest in costume designing, she is a gifted dancer, and has maintained a very successful class in the north. Two years ago, she was offered a contract to go abroad with a professional company, but because of her youth, refused the flattering offer.

Following the ceremony the new Mr. and Mrs. Jones were complimented at a beautifully appointed dinner in the home of Mrs. Floyd Soto on San Vicente boulevard, with members of the two families and the bridal party among the guests.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Wee Duncy looked at his small fish and said, "Oh, I'll bet you all wish that you could catch one and big. It is something, anything!"

"As fishermen, you're not so good. I did just as I said I would. I caught the first one, even though I'll toss the thing away."

"Sure! Throw it back. It's too small," said Dotty. "Gee, if that is all we're going to hook, we'd better quit. We're wasting time, I guess."

"You see, it really isn't fair to jerk the small ones into air. I'd hoped to catch some great big ones, and have a dandy mess."

"Now, please be patient. Just sit tight, and you will find this spot."

"Don't let it jump around and play, or I am sure 'twill get away."

Wee Duncy tried to land it, but soon found it was no use.

"Just as she cried, 'I'm all tired out,'" the fish jumped high and jerked about. Poor Dotty lost her balance and was pulled into the stream.

The next thing that the Tinies knew, brave Scouty ran and jumped in, too. "Don't worry! I will rescue her," the whole bunch heard him scream.

ONE of the most unsportsmanlike stunts on the gridiron comes from the stone age of football. Despite the antiquity of this action, it is still practiced by some players.

The deed is performed with malice aforethought, and generally by a blocker who has no thought for clean football. Running interference for a fellow back into the line, the player leaves his feet, does a body roll, and flings his feet into the air, hoping that his flying cleats will meet the face of some charging lineman.

This is unfair football of the worst sort. They don't make penalties stiff enough for this type of play. Many an old-time gridiron great carries scars inflicted by just such sort of action.

The sketch illustrates this example of poor sportsmanship.

PROGRAM GIVEN AT SESSION OF LEGION GROUP

LAGUNA BEACH SEEKS TO DRAW MORE VISITORS DURING WINTER

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 25.—Ways and means of attracting winter visitors to Laguna Beach were discussed at a round table luncheon meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday at the Hotel Laguna. The discussion was led by Dr. Thomas Spencer A. Miller, president of the Coast Council on Beautification, who pointed to many things that must be done "to make the house ready for the visitors."

Capt. Don Wilkie, formerly of the U. S. Secret service, who was secretary of the chamber of commerce of Fort Myers, Fla., during the boom days, volunteered his help. Others who spoke were Gene Douglas, R. G. Lindley, John H. Hinchman, Howard G. Heisler, Thomas L. Hosmer, George E. Thompson, Mrs. Agnes Yoch West, N. E. West and Capt. George A. Portus, executive secretary, who presided.

Captain Portus announced a competition, with prizes of $5 and $2.50 for the best letters telling how Laguna Beach may be made attractive as a winter resort.

The performance opened with a romper dance by seven girls. The second number was a jump-rope tap dance by Louise Holt, followed by a song by Leonard Maunders, entitled, "Lazy Bones." Marie Mitchell, M.-G.-M., baby star, gave an acrobatic dance and Maxine Sparkes gave a military tap dance, followed by a song by Leonard and Emile Maunders, "Old Rockin' Chair." A piano solo was given by John Carson, followed by three dance numbers, a tap dance by Emile Maunders; a buck dance by Marie Mitchell and French number by seven girls.

Chrysanthemums from the gardens of Mrs. Bessie Pullen, Mrs. Lena Russell and Mrs. Marie Dyckman were used profusely in the decorations. The dining table was arranged in v-shape, presided over by the new president, Mrs. Alberta Timm, with the junior past president, Mrs. Iris Brown, at her side. Mrs. Fannie Reeves and Mrs. Ruth Jells of the Santa Ana unit were guests.

GARDEN GROVE, Oct. 25.—A delightful tea was given at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wakeham recently by the Misses Ernestine and Marjorie Wakeham in honor of their mother, Mrs. E. A. Wakeham, on her 25th wedding anniversary.

The home was decorated with baskets of varied chrysanthemums, while the tea table was in silver and white. The table was centered with bride's roses, sweet peas and larkspur, with tall white tapers in silver holders. Mrs. J. R. Skeiw and Mrs. Harry Meyer poured tea, which was served with dainty sandwiches and cakes decorated in pastel shades. The Miss Marjorie and Ernestine Wakeham were assisted during the afternoon by their sister-in-law, Mrs. Ned Wakeham; Miss Eleanor Wigner and Miss Roseline Schilling of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Wakeham received many lovely gifts, including bouquet of button chrysanthemums in mixed colors and arranged in a shower effect, with coins of various denominations tied in cellophane paper to silver ribbon streamers, from members of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Special mention was made of the Navajos and a description of the work that his church is doing for that tribe. The tribe, at present the largest band of Indians in America, numbers 45,000, he said. A $100,000 plant, including a hospital and schools, has been built and is maintained at Ganado by the Presbyterian church for the care and education of these natives. Harry W. Lewis, also of Santa Ana, assisted with the program.

Music for the evening was furnished by the Garden Grove Methodist church orchestra, directed by A. D. Brownell. The orchestra includes violins, played by Dorothy Stevens, Eileen Sculmon, Phyllis Ralston, Evelyn Blaeholder and Allen Anderson; trumpets, Junior Brownell and Jess Scriber; clarinets, Harold Chaplin and Winifred Schneider; saxophones, Warren Kimball, Harry Ena and Doris Gilbreath, Dorothy Sculmon and Franklin McDonald; flute, Joyce Arkley; alto horn, Mr. Berry; tuba, Mr. Light; trombone, Bob Walton; piano, Oneta Ames.

Roy Davis, president of the brotherhood, presented the orchestra, and the Rev. W. L. Lowe introduced the speaker. A pot-luck dinner preceded the program, served by the members of the Woman's Aid society. One new member, Dr. C. A. Custer, was received into the membership of the body.

BIBLE TEACHER IN PLACENTIA TALKS

Mesa Church In Special Services

PLACENTIA, Oct. 25.—Dr. John Page, noted Bible teacher, formerly of the Moody and Los Angeles institutes, is holding a two weeks' conference at Placentia Calvary church. The church was filled last night to hear the speaker. Young people especially are invited and arrangements are made to have a group of Bible institute young people for special musical numbers at the service Friday at 7:30 p.m.

There will be one voting precinct, and that is at the San Clemente Social club. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

W. J. BARRY FILES COUNCIL PETITION

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 25.—W. J. Barry, pioneer resident of San Clemente, has filed a petition seeking election as city councilman of San Clemente. Signatures on the petition filed included those of Hamilton H. Cotton, Dan Mulherron, Trafford Huteson, Ole Hanson, Roy R. Dival, Mrs. Nell M. Fate, Mrs. Hazel M. Amundson, Frank W. Parsons, Argalla M. Cowger and Fred Outhout.

The San Clemente election will be held on November 13, according to notice issued by City Clerk William Holmes. The special election is to be held to fill a vacancy on the city council caused by the recent election when Earl Von BonHorst was recalled.

There will be but one voting precinct, and that is at the San Clemente Social club. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"SUCCESS MAN" TO AUTO POLO DRIVER DELIVER LECTURE TO BE INTERVIEWED

H. L. Parks, lecturer, known as the "Success Man" and author of the nationally-known series "Harnessing Happiness," "What Are You Worth?" "Achieving Ambition" and other philosophical and psychological works will be introduced next Friday during the regular broadcast at 9 a. m. of the "Health and Happiness" program over KREG.

The "Health and Happiness" broadcasts have been well received because of their educational and entertaining value and it is believed that this anticipation of the programs will be continued.

The experience of Parks in national and state affairs and his broad educational and research work have given him a wealth of interesting material that will be included in future broadcasts. A special feature is being promised for the Friday morning broadcast.

Agricultural problems will be discussed by George N. Peek, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, in a talk over a nationwide NBC network including KECA and KFSD, between 7:30 and 8 tonight, during the National Radio Forum. Peek, co-author of the book, "Equality for Agriculture," writer of numerous pamphlets on national agricultural policies, manufacturer of farm equipment and Democratic leader, will speak particularly of the administration's efforts to keep the advances in farm prices in step with increases in industry.

Questions on football will be answered by Herb Dana in his 15-minute talk over an NBC network including KFI beginning at 9:15 tonight. The noted gridiron expert, who is Commissioner of Officials of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, will comment on outstanding games of the past week, plays and players, and other activities of interest to football fans.

THURSDAY

British political discussions, a series of frank statements from leaders of all political parties in Great Britain, which are short-waved from London each Thursday and rebroadcast in this country over NBC networks, including KECA and KFSD, will bring the Right Honorable James H. Thomas, important member of the present government, to the microphone at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow. The distinguished Labor M. P., who also is Secretary of State for the Dominions and Colonies, will explain and defend some of the policies of the Nationalist government which were attacked by the Hon. George Lansbury in a previous broadcast in the series.

C. B. Merriam, Director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will be the next in the series of American Legion speakers to be heard over the Columbia network, including KHJ at 1:35 p. m. Thursday.

"SUCCESS MAN" to AUTO POLO DRIVER TO BE INTERVIEWED

Anaheim News

"GYPSY" SMITH CITY STREETS IS LAUDED BY DECORATED FOR LOCAL PASTOR HUGES PARADE

GARY GALE, who is internationally known as one of the best auto polo drivers in the game, will be interviewed by Gordon Mills, chief announcer of KREG, on the game of auto polo and what the players do, how, what happens and is liable to happen, etc., for the Grand Premiere of Auto Polo at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The interview will take place tonight in the main studio of KREG at 7 o'clock.

Gale is one of the sixteen men who will take part in one of the hair-raising events of the evening which will include four acts of super-trapeze work at a height of 110 feet by the Bell-Thazer Troupe, the only group of acrobats attempting and making a "figure 8" from a springboard.

More than 100 men, representing Anaheim, Garden Grove, Yorba Linda, Placentia, Brea and Fullerton churches gave enthusiastic approval to the campaign that will begin here on Sunday, November 5 in the tabernacle that is being erected on West Broadway this week.

The music was led by Edward Q. Dunning, who will be singer at the services with his wife, Mrs. Dunning, as official accompanist. The songs that were sung last night were a group of those used in the services.

S. F. Huguenfeld, general chairman of the dinner, presided and disposed of the few matters of business pertaining to the coming affair.

The supper was cooked by the Presbyterian Ladies Aid society.

ANAHEIM, Oct. 25.—Eight new members were voted into the Hi Y club last night when a meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. building and the candidates will be inducted as soon as they pass their probation period.

Those voted in are Robert Eley, Ray Brown, Earl Jordan, Kenneth McCloud, Warren Rosenberger, Leslie Minder, Glenn Robinson and Herbert Gulick.

On Friday night the members will join the Girl Reserves at the First Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock for a party and on November 7 will meet for a pot luck supper before joining to attend the "Gypsy" Smith evangelistic services.

The program was put on by the members. Don Doepke speaking on "Clean Speech and Clean Sports," Coalson Morris on "Clean Scholarship and Clean Life," Ted Wedel on "The Purpose of Hi Y." Following their part in the program Conrad Jongewaard, leader, told the boys "What They Expect of a Hi Y Fellow."

PATERNALISM AND PUBLIC ASSEMBLY

There has been a veritable "tempest in a teapot" over the question of public speakers at open forums and in the school buildings. It is probably well that this "tempest," however, has occurred, as like other electric storms, the atmosphere is quite cleared.

Standing out quite boldly and strongly is the principle of free speech thoroughly vindicated by the forces of the country in great numbers. Secondly, we believe that the attempt to deny the students the right to hear so able and well equipped an exponent of one of the great theories of social change, as was the speaker last evening, will hardly again be attempted.

This gentleman, speaking at other colleges all around Santa Ana, and at some points where the public was admitted without charge, and this action of paternalism and attempt to tell young men and women in these serious times just what they can listen to, has seriously miscarried and reflects upon the judgment and breadth of vision of our management.

We believe that the men at the head of our educational work, in other words, our educators in this city, especially those having to do with the direction of our high school and junior college—the principal of the high school and the dean of the junior college, are well equipped in their study and in their knowledge of world affairs, and their interest in teaching the students how to think, so that they might be trusted to select, from the men available for speakers, those who are worth while for the assembly. We do not believe that the representatives on the school board, selected to manage our school affairs from the citizen's point of view, will be disposed to tell the students that they cannot hear those who are so selected. These things, we believe, were brought out quite clearly in this whole discussion, and those who raised the question have really performed considerable of a public service.

We were not particularly interested in this forum. We have looked upon it as very little else than a lecture course. The Register had been using its columns to help open forums where all the people were permitted to hear, without admission charge, and where offerings alone were taken to defray the necessary expenses. Under such forums we have had such men as Harry Laird, Kirby Page, Paul Blanshard and Prof. Ray Malcolm. These men were heard by all who desired to listen.

The board took action providing for a trip together the whole length of the Santa Ana river and its tributaries. There is little question but as this group does this, and works together, it will come to more and more uniform agreement as touching elemental facts concerning the situation.

It was suggested at a meeting before this board was organized, that there might be Federal money available for flood control in the Santa Ana river, which, if true, would aggregate several millions of dollars; that this money might be had from the government without any expense by the citizens of Orange county or any portion of it. While there was doubt expressed, we are glad to note that the Board of Supervisors has immediately taken action for inquiry and for planning, and they have the co-operation of this water board, as they will have of the entire citizenry of Orange county, if there is any possibility of getting such funds.

Incidentally, there are some things that should be changed about this water district law. The cost of the election, considering the preparation for it, was something, we understood, in the neighborhood of $25,000. It was the more expensive because of the necessity of systematically and accurately designating the ones who were entitled to vote, being the property owners. It might be well if the law provided that each individual must keep up his own record of proof of his right to vote, in some manner, saving the great expense to the county and to the voters as well. There is no secrecy to the ballot.

It is little else than the voting of stockholders, and it might be possible to keep the record of the stockholders and changes as they occur, and provide that in changing, to be entitled to vote, they must see that the obligation is upon the voters to effect the change in the hands of the transfer agent who might be designated.

In any case, the board is off to a good start, and we predict that the interests of all involved will be very well looked after.

A Sporting Challenge

Christian Science Monitor

America's claim to sailing supremacy no longer stands unchallenged. The Royal Yacht Squadron has laid down, on behalf of a British sportsman, a formal challenge to a contest for the America's Cup in 1934.

For the fifteenth time in eighty-three years of America's Cup competition, Great Britain proposes to send a friendly invader across the seas in an attempt to retrieve the trophy which the yacht America carried off before the gaze of Queen Victoria in a regatta at Cowes one summer day in 1851.

T. O. M. Sopwith, noted airplane manufacturer, a comparative newcomer to the field of yachting, is the man who hopes to renew the quest so valiantly maintained for thirty years by Sir Thomas Lipton with his long line of famous Shamrocks. Mr. Sopwith's success in sailing Shamrock V, the most recent challenger, which he purchased from the Lipton estate, indicates that he is a worthy contender.

Endeavor is the name of the prospective British contestant, a steel sloop now building in the yard of Camper & Nicholson at Gosport. And there is something in her name that seems to typify the dogged determination of British sportsmen to regain the prize which has come to be regarded among maritime nations as symbolic of sailing supremacy.

While the Royal Yacht Squadron's challenge has not yet been acted upon by the New York Yacht club, its acceptance is a foregone conclusion. As custodians of the cup, it is likely the New York club will stage a series of trial races among aspirants built by syndicates of American yachtsmen before naming the defender.

This is a big advantage to the guardians of the cup. For under the terms laid down by the donors of the prize, the challenger must name his boat nearly a year prior to the match, while the New York Yacht club is permitted to select the defender on the eve of the contest, following a season of trial races intended to reveal the speediest boat. That British yachtsmen are still willing to compete in spite of this handicap only emphasizes their good sportsmanship.

A VOICE THAT RINGS TRUE

The Manchester Guardian stands out as the world's most outspoken journal. Without fear or favor it espouses the cause of the oppressed and rings true in every matter of politics and statesmanship. It may be recalled that during the war it had no part in that baiting of everything German, which was then all but universal. It refused to believe the atrocity stories so widely circulated against the Germans. It made a standing offer of $20,000 for evidence of any wanton case of German atrocity during the war. And no such evidence, except that contained in the well-known Bryce report, which since has been acknowledged to be pure propaganda to fire the hate against the Germans, was forthcoming. In answer to a question put to Mr. Bryce at the Williamstown conference, a few years before he died, he acknowledged that he had no personal knowledge of any atrocities such as his report contained, but that the stories were vouched for by men in whom he had confidence. He added that in much of the content of that report he had been deceived by men whom he trusted.

This attitude of the Manchester Guardian during the war makes its present attitude

WATER DISTRICT BOARD ORGANIZES AND PLANS

The new water district board was organized yesterday, and has started out on its program of service for the district. The chairman selected is a gentleman who has not been identified with any of the "warring" factions, and has a reputation of investigating and weighing most carefully, facts relating to any subject which is presented to his mind.

The board took action providing for a trip together the whole length of the Santa Ana river and its tributaries. There is little question but as this group does this, and works together, it will come to more and more uniform agreement as touching elemental facts concerning the situation.

It was suggested at a meeting before this board was organized, that there might be Federal money available for flood control in the Santa Ana river, which, if true, would aggregate several millions of dollars; that this money might be had from the government without any expense by the citizens of Orange county or any portion of it. More Truth Than Poetry

MAN AND BEAST

The seal unwittingly devotes His life to making fur for coats.

The quiet bossy, through a life Devote void of trouble, stress or strife,

Forgoes at last her calm and ease To give us meat and cream and cheese

The common run of fish and brutes Man, on occasion, spears or shoots

To satisfy some human whim Or furnish food or clothes for him.

Why all these creatures do not mind The wicked ways of human kind

And make our race their common foe Is something that I do not know.

If they should all of them unite And wage on us a common fight

We could not rightfully complain For this terrestrial terrain

Where we our royal ways pursue Was made for other creatures, too.

Still man pursues these ways of his And that is just the way things is.

The thing that counts is intellect, And always will be, I expect.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WHEN CONGRESS COMES

When Congress convenes it will have upon its shoulders a heavier responsibility than has rested upon any Congress within the memory of most men now living.

The preceding session functioned in the first fine fervor of an hour when the nation was crying aloud for action, without, it must be admitted, any very clear notion of what action it wanted. Power unprecedented was lodged by it in the hands of the President.

The new Congress will meet in a radically different atmosphere. The emotions of last March have cooled. Individual Congressmen have been since bombarded by persons and interests whose toes have been stepped on by administration policies. Criticism generally has since grown more confident and has come out from under cover. The political opposition has begun to sniff the air of battle and is looking for standing ground from which to do battle. The normal gap between promise and performance appears in even this unusually vigorous administration.

EFFECTIVE EDUCATION

"Well, Robert, you're going to college, I hear."

"Yes, Gram. At the end of this term I have to go to college to get my degree."

"What for?"

"What for? Why, I have to have it."

"What for?"

"I don't understand, Gram. You go to college to get a degree. You can't get anywhere without one these days."

"Where are you going with the degree?"

"O, I'll get a job at something. Maybe I'll be—O, you never can tell. Maybe when I'm in for a year or so I'll find out."

"A year or so—that's a long time out of one's life. A year or so. It's only when you're young that you can speak so lightly of time as that. I wish you could actually do something, my boy. I know your father could do many things at your age. Somehow you seem so helpless. What can you do?"

"Why, I don't know, Gram. Lots of things."

"I've watched you all summer in the hope of seeing something you could do well. It troubles me to find you can do nothing and have no idea of doing anything. You can't make a fire; you can't make a bed; you can't drive a cow to pasture or give her a drink; you can't ride a horse, feed chickens, sew on a button, mend a tire, calculate how much cement was needed for the floor there wasn't a thing on the farm that said anything to your mind or to your hands. It troubles me to see an intelligent boy so helpless. What CAN you do?"

"Now don't you worry about me, Gram. I'll get along all right. I'll do something, you'll see. I'm not a farmer but I'm something else. Father wasn't a farmer, was he?"

"No. He was a useful boy, though. He helped with every job that came along from lambing to shearing. I tell you that if you want to be an education that will carry you anywhere worth while it has to be built on work that was thoroughly done. Your father is a better lawyer because he could do any job that came along as well as the next man could. I don't know what the technical terms for such things are."
